Summary of reasons for decision:

The clip depicts a man stupefying and raping a woman for the purpose of viewer sexual arousal. As such it promotes and supports the use of violence or coercion to compel a person to submit to sexual conduct and is deemed objectionable under s3(2)(b) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993 (FVPC Act). This classification of objectionable interferes with the right to freedom of expression as affirmed by the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. However, this is an outcome that is consistent with Parliament's intention that publications falling under s3(2) of the FVPC Act be deemed objectionable and is a reasonable limitation on that right.
